MARRIAGE IN REVERSE WOWS CAMPTONVILLE

LARGE CROWD ROARS WITH GLEE AS MALE BRIDE IS MARRIED TO FEMALE GROOM

By Mrs. James D. Rittenhouse

CAMPTONVILLE: An elaborate mock wedding Saturday night entertained an overflow crowd at the Masonic Hall and was a means of raising over $100 for the Camptonville Community Church building fund.

In the humorous ceremony, men played the part of women and women played the part of men. The rite was read from a Sears Roebuck catalog, in keeping with the delightfully nonsensical character of the backwards event.

Previous to the wedding, the crowd assembled in Masonic Hall on Main Street heard a gay musical entertainment.

The program opened with a group of vocal solos by members of the Children's Choir. The youngsters were elaborately costumed and each performed like a seasoned trouper. Howard Williams sang Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms to Colleen Brown.

In the second scene, 8 year old Claudia Brown cuddled her doll and sang a Brahms lullaby in a clear, childish voice.

More well loved songs followed, including Highland Laddie sung by Maryanne Molen, Juanita by Frances and Kathryn Moore, Mother Machree by Floyd Rogers, Darling Nellie Gray by Donnalee Stodadard. Home on the Range by Ila Baker and Old Black Joe by Albert Rogers.

Each number was ushered in by two white winged fairies, Nelda Stone and Claudia Brown. Cleora Hansen played the part of the grandmother and Kitty Lou Rittenhouse that of the little girl.

A group of songs by the mixed quartet followed. Theres music in the air and Funiculi Funicula followed the quartet. Mrs. Al Molen and Rev. James Peel sang a lively duet. Reuben and Rachael. Then Rev. Peel sang a delightful group of negro spirituals.

The evening was climaxed by a twisted wedding that was all but stopped in a wave of hilarity when Mrs. Nelson Stone, the "groom" walked right out of her shoes in the nervous confusion of the occasion, and required all possible aid from Mrs. Ruby Platz, her "best man."

The wedding procession entered from the rear of the hall to the strains of Mendellsohn's Spring Song, sung by Mrs. James Rittenhouse accompanied by Al Molen at the piano. The "bride" Clarence Hanson, smiled and blushed his way to the stage on the arm of "mother" James Rittenhouse.

The bride's "mother," charming in a long maroon silk gown and Kelly green picture hat, wept throughout the ceremony. "She" carried a large blue bandana with a whistle (for blowing razzberries) concealed in its folds.

The maid of honor, Clifford Williams, made a sight, waltzing down the aisle with stateley grace, followed by the "bridesmaids" Edwin Baker and Harold Vinhurst, all lovely in pastel gowns and stunning headpieces fashioned of crepe paper and lace curtains.

Mrs. Mary Jackson and Mrs. Edwin Baker were ring-bearer and flower girl in short pink dresses and pigtails. Mrs. Octavia Brown and Mrs. Harold Vinhurst, "ushers" were assisted by the portly pseudo-minister, Mrs. Sam Price, complete with chin whiskers.

After the very un-Reverend Price completed the ceremony read from a well known mail order catalogue, the ladies aid served the "newly weds" and assembled group homemade pie and coffee and offered for sale many beautiful pieces of needlework.

DE WITT EXPECTS MORE PATIENTS

An additional three hundred patients are expected to arrive at De Witt State Hospital during the next week, Dr. G. D. Tipton, superintendent stated.

At the present time the patient census is 305. A group of 154 women were expected to arrive today rom Agnew State Hospital. Dr. Tipton said and another group of 150 women were scheduled to come from the same place next Thursday.

This will bring the total patients to over 600.

Our Airport Grows

NEVADA CITY—Tom R. Bowles, Nevada City Airport manager, reports when he took over the post shortly after V-E day there was not a plane in the hangars or on the field.

Now, he states eleven planes are based there, six of his own and five of private owners. The field is equipped to service all planes, make repairs and even assemble planes.

His own planes include two Piper Cubs, two Vultees purchased from Army surpluses, and two Travelairs, used for rice seeding. Orville Nelson, with a private pilot's license, owns a Vultee based there, Ted Edinger bases his Ercoupe there, Robert Neep has a Travelair rice seeder and Vultee, Michael Paul a Piper Cub, and John Hampton Lasbaugh, a Vultee.

Bowles of late has been doing a large business in rice seeding in Colusa and other rice growing countries. He states three hundred acres a day can be seeded by one of his Travelairs, which has been specially designed for the job.

During the summer, while the fire hazard in Tahoe National Forest was high, three Stinson L5s were based on Nevada City Airport. These planes are used for observation purposes and now play an important role in detecting fires.

Saturday morning, Darwin Conover, formerly fire ontrol officer of the Bloomfield Ranger Station here, flew over from Quincy, headquarters for the Plumas Forest, flew over in a Piper Cub to the airport here in 40 minutes, a fast trip of four hours in an automobile.

The Nevada City Airport, Bowles states, has the distinction of having the longest runway, 2600 feet, in the western end of the county. The north and south runway is 1800 feet in length and is not so much used because the long runway, east and west, lies in the direction of the prevailing winds most of the year.

Mining Finished? Nope! Nope!

French Corral: E. A. Wiltsee, dredge operator, is reported to have leased claims on the gravel channel between French Corral and Birchville on the San Juan Ridge. He is expected to begin operations there in the near future.

The channel to be worked is estimated to be two miles long. Wiltsee has recently been working gravel channels on the North Fork of the American River.

MYERS MOBLEY FUNERAL IN BURLINGAME

BURLINGAME: Funeral services for Myers Mobley, formerly of Nevada City, were held Friday afternoon in Burlingame, where he had resided in recent years with his wife, Phyllis and two young sons.

Mobley, for many years employed in Dickerman Drug Store, was born in Nevada City 40 years ago. He was the son of Justice of the Peace Walter Mobley.

At the regular meeting of Nevada City Elks Thursday night, a lodge of sorrow was held for Mobley. Ward Sheldon, Exalted Ruler, conducted the service, assisted by Chaplain Al Murray and Secretary Lambert B. Thomas. Curtis R. Clark and District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler, Miles L. Marders spoke of the deceased man.

GEORGE HANSEN NEW CHAMBER PRESIDENT

A newcomer who immediately plunged into the civic whirl for the betterment of Nevada City is to be the next president of the Chamber of Commerce, George Hansen.

In March of this year Hansen purchased the Don Bluxome paint store on Broad Street and through his successful business methods has seen his business increase month after month. Joining the chamber immediately on his arrival he began taking an active interest in its pro jects like the 4th of July and the airport.

Born in Logan, Utah, but a Californian by choice, Hansen for the past 7 years was a painting contractor in Alameda. With the urge to own a store of his own he began searching for a paint store to own in a pleasant, beautiful location. The happy combination he found in NevadaCity.

At the present time he and Mrs. Hansen, who is his willing co-worker in the operation of the store make their home on the Genasci place in Willow Valley but eventually they plan to build their own, for as Brigham Young said about Salt Lake City—"This is the place."

Hansen is an ardent fisherman and an ambitious hunter, but with poor luck during the recent deer season.

Hansen looks forward to 1947 as another year of substantial growth in Nevada City. He has no doubt that our town will continue to have a happy population growth. The influx of retired people with fixed incomes, a community asset, should be encouraged according to Hansen. The chamber has indicated that the city park and the airport should be first on the spring program and the pushing of these two worthwhile projects will be the aim of the new president. Bert Foreman, who has served loyally for two terms believes the chamber made an excellent choice in selecting Hansen and asks for the same community wide support they gave him.

Late Congressman's Family is Honored

SMARTVILLE: Two hundred and fifty people, many them mining engineers interested in a hydraulic mining, many friends of the Englebright family, gathered yesterday afternoon at the great dam in the Yuba River Narrows to dedicate and name it the Harry L. Englebright Dam.

The ceremony was sponsored by the California Hydraulic Mining Association and it's president, George W. Hallock, presided. He gave a history of the trials and many crises which the hydraulic mining industry in California had confronted. The battle for the hydraulic industry, the struggle to keep it alive Hallock said, began with William L. Englebright, late predecessor of his son, Harry L. Englebright, continued through the long period in which John Raker represented the second district, and was finally triumphantly completed under the guiding hand of Harry L. Englebright, who was successful in getting congress to authorize and finance the debris dams.

George L. Gildersleeve led the audience in the pledge of allegiance to the flag. Rev. Frank H. Buck pronounced the invocation.

Telegrams were read from Governor Earl Warren, Herbert Hoover, former president of the United States, Joseph W. Martin, soon to be speaker of the House of Representatives, Clarence F. Lea, congressman of Santa Rosa, Frank M. Jordan, California secretary of State, and J. P. Black, president of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company which purchases the power created by the dam.

Judge George L. Jones, of Nevada City, then introduced Mrs. Grace L. Englebright, widow of the late congressman, and their son H. Jackson Englebright and his wife.

Col. Lester F. Rhoades, secretary of the California Debris Commission and member of the U. S. Corps of Army Engineers was introduced. George Goodall, engineer and designer of the dam, who stated he had made his first sketch of the dam almost 13 years ago to the day. Others who were introduced by George Hallock included Irving Tucker, state mineralogist, Col. Robert C. Hunter member of the Debris Commission, and the executive board of the hydraulic association, Robert Dalberg, Claude E. Clark, Fred E. Browne and W. W. Esterly.

Philip R. Bradley, retired mining operator and engineer, the engineer who helped his brother the late Fred Bradley develope the Alaska Juneau Mine, spoke feelingly of the golden era of mining which he believes California is one day to enter again.

General Warren T. Hannum, retired, U. S. Army Engineers, former chairman of the debris commission, and present director of the Department of Natural Resources of California dedicatory speaker of the day, expressed keen satisfaction in witnessing the completion of a great phoject to which so many had given their strength and energy, spearheaded by the late Harry L. Englebright, who succeeded in getting the

City Plans No-Smell Sewage Disposal Plant On Banks of Deer Creek

PROPOSED PLANT TO NEED ONLY TWO MAN HOURS PER DAY FOR OPERATION. MAY COST $75,000 FOR CONSTRUCTION

NEVADA CITY—The city council has taken the first important step toward the creation of a modern sewage disposal plant. It has ordered the engineering firm of Headman. Ferguson and Corrolo of Phoenix, Arizona, to draw preliminary plans for a sewage disposal plant.

John Corrolo, sewage engineer and partner in the firm conferred with the city council Thursday. He estimated a modern automatic sewage disposal plant to accommodate a population of 5,000 would cost $60,000. Only 2 hours work by one man per day are considered necessary to operate the plant.

Of this sum, the town may receive $21,000 from the state "Christmas tree" fund which the legislature appropriated for cities and counties.

A tentative Deer Creek site has been chosen. Half an acre is necessary.

The project contemplated involves a "digestive" tank 28 feet deep and containing 2 cubic feet of space per capita of the population served. In Nevada City's case, plant capacity for 5,000 is planted, calling for a capacity of 10,000 cubic feet.

The raw sewage is to come to the sewage disposal plant, and enter the digestive tank, in which chemicals reduce the matter to a sludge. The sludge is channeled into a giant filter, six feet deep filled with river pebbles and one a half to two and a half inches in diameter

It seeps down through the filter and then goes directly into the creek. At this point it may be necessary to further purify this water converted from sewage with a chlorination plant. Such a plant however may not be necessary, and its costs and scope is not included in the present plan.

The proposed plant, if properly maintained should have no odor whatsoever. Examples of the same type exist in the center of other localities without cause any odoriferous nuisance whatever.

In order to secure approximately $21,000 from state funds, the city must present satisfactory plans to the State Board of Health by July 1, 1947.

This type of plant was originally invented by a German sewage engineer. The firm of Headman, Ferguson and Corrolo of Phoenix ,Ariz., has had wide experience in the planning and erection of sewage disposal plants, including building 16 plants for the federal government. At present they are engaged in construction of a $75,000 plant for the city of Riverside, Riverside County, California.

The preliminary plans which the city council has authorized will if deemed satisfactory, be filed with the Board of Health of the state.

Building of the plant must be begun by January 1, 1949, in order to qualify for state aid.

GLUM GOLD DIGGERS

California's gold miners are in the toughest situation of their industry's romantic history. Throughout the Mother Lode and Nevada City-Grass Valley mining areas, richest in the state, but four mines are in operation today—compared with 100 in full blast just before the war.

The chief reason for the collapse is clear. The price of gold has been fixed by federal law since years before any other industry ever heard of price control. It was last set in 1933 at $35 an ounce. The fixed price is now so squeezed by higher labor, lumber, machinery and other production costs that only uncommonly rich ore bodies can be worked without actual loss to the operators.

The apparent immediate solution an increase in the price of gold, is dim in the hope of mine operators. For one thing, some minds in government authority, who claim to understand the mystery of money (which Arthur Brisbane maintained, to his death, nobody understands), fear a gold price boost would throw a large segment of global monetary planning out of balance. For another since the federal government is the chief buyer of gold, and puts it all in a big hole in Kentucky, a price boost would amount to a federal subsidy and the trend is away from subsidies as bad economics.

Possibly, as some financial commentators propose, some favorable tax revision for the industry, such as larger allowances for depreciation and depletion would give gold mining the break it apparently must have if it is to survive. Survive it should. by some practicable means! It would be a glum day for all California if her oldest and most colorful industry, for long the state's main wealth producer and still under normal conditions, a major one, should die. Lusty, tradition loving California wants gold mining—not more ghost towns. — Contibuted.

JUST WONDERIN'

I wonder what we'll talk about,
Now that we've gone so strictly right,
No bad New Deal, no bureaucrats,
And all the sky so blue and bright;
We have no reason for complaining,
Or real and fancied woes proclaiming;
The nation's safe beyond a doubt,
But oh. what can we talk about?

The recent election seems to have been a mandate in many respects, but it has taken from us many a juicy subject for intelligent or unintelligent conversation. A crop of old subjects have suddenly become out dated—obsolete. The New Deal is as dead as the dodo, the bureaucrats are flying in all directions. Regimentation is a cattering ghost of the past, price controls are as figments of a bad dream. Go on down the line of erstwhile stirring morsels and you will find that there is no further danger of becoming loquacious—our conversations threaten to languish.

Thank goodness, the subjects of rice, sugar and rents remain, also there are taxes and the balanced budget to be considered. Our new legislators will also have the tangled web of employer-employee differences to straighten out, the KKK, and above all else our foreign relations. After all, it seems that governmental tasks of some magnitude are ahead and if we are interested in the present and the future of our country, we shall find plenty to think and talk about during the coming months.

I for one, hope that harmony may obtain between the new law makers and the president. I hope that Mr. Truman will sit his mount with poise and show to the country and to the world, a sample of fine horsemanship and true sportsmanship. I hope the incoming republicans will seek the welfare of the nation irrespective of party lines and that for the next two years we may have a period of genuine progress, good will and prosperity. We want no government with a split personality. Now, that the war is practically over and we have gone right, let's settle down and beat the drums of peace as loudly and efficiently as we did those of war.

Thanksgiving is just around the corner and no land upon the face of the earth has greater reason for being truly thankful than ours. Even the democrats, have cause for some degree of optimism, for looking down the vistas of the years and viewing their course in the light of past history, they may well take heart; in just about twenty five years they will be back again. Hasn't that been the way the party has followed? From Cleveland to Wilson, from Wilson to Franklin D. Roosevelt—count the years between and if you are a democrat, place your trust in the future and utter no peremiads.

Uncle Silas says: "I hear that the incoming legislators are going to do a lot of investigating; I wish they would investigate the flag displayed in the picture, Washington Crossing the Delaware. That flag—where did it come from and why?—Adeline Merriam Conner.

WHAT DOES NEVADA CITY NEED MOST?

Your reporter asked this question of a healthy handful of local humans, and in a later installment will put the same question to others.

The responses were diversified, ranging all the way from statements of broad civic ideals to the smallest details of practical affairs. Some were ribald and unprintable.

But the answers speak for themselves, just as do our rugged and independent citizenry:

(The same question was asked each person: "What does Nevada City need most?)

BERT JOHNSON

Co-operation among the merchants.

MRS. BERT JOHNSON

Better streets are a real necessity. Upper Spring Street is enough to ruin a good car with its terrible bumps and mud in winter. Some attention should be paid to the poor streets on Piety Hill, too.

FRED CHARLES GARRISON

A new industry. A guy was in yesterday, said he was looking for a building for a furniture factory. I though he wanted a huge building, but he said just a little one would do. Maybe we ought to rent him space in the Nugget or the Union office.

CHARLES ELLIOTT

(Charles was on a ladder in the drug store window, apparently poiishing the ceiling when interviewed.) More time to relax. On second thought what we need is more street lights. We're in the dark up our way.

AN UNKNOWN BYSTANDER

What we need is warm weather.

GEORGE RICHARDS

Something to keep high school kids off the corner of Broad and Pine. Either a city recreational center or a concentration camp would do it. Take your choice.

RACHEL PENROSE

The town needs natural gas.

LEO CULLEN

More population. On second thought, that doesn't. sound just right. We really need so many things it's hard to know just where to start. A new park, a chlorination system, and a sewage disposal plant. If we did everything that seems necessary, a couple of hundred thousand dollars wouldn't go very far.

ALBERT POITRAS

The town needs a good four-bit meal.

WILLIAM C. BRIGGS

What we need most is another Harley Leete. There are only three of them now.

H. M. LEETE, SR.

The city council needs more money to do more things. That's why I'm in favor of parking meters—to provide more revenue for the city. We have a first rate city council but they haven't got the money to do anything. When they do get some, one of the first things they should take care of is Pioneers Park.

DONALD JUSTIN ROLLINS

A Model A Ford for every high school boy, beginning with me.

CEDRIC S. PORTER

The town needs some enthusiasm. It ought to take an interest in itself. It needs imagination. It needs to get off the dime and make the most of its potentialities to a much greater extent than it has in the past.

FRANK CARTOSCELLI

The town needs to get along without a lot of things it's already got. But on the constructive side, it needs more than anything else a park where the city lot on Nimrod Street is.

MRS. O. J. MELTON

Yellow loading zone strips ought to be repainted.

House On Grove Street Gutted By Fire

NEVADA CITY: The home of Mr. and Mrs. John Turner on Grove Street was saved from complete destruction yesterday afternoon by the fire department, who were called, according to the department's estimate some ten minutes after the fire started.

The two story dwelling, known as the Lystrup house, was badly damaged. Turner who had leased the house estimates the damage to the building at $2500. The Turners lost their furniture, bedding and clothing. The fire was caused by an overflow of oil in wood stove adapted to use of fluid oil.

SCOUT APPEAL GOES FORWARD

Word from G. E. THINKING OUT LOUD

By H. M. L.

Well! Well! and an Ahem! but not by any means an Amen! It seems the Democrats are busily canvassing their ranks for presidential timber in the year 1948. With Truman apparently out of the running, both by his personal inclination and the violent wish of the party, it is apparent that only few tall Democratic timbers remain in the whole logged-over country.

Despite the failure of the son of a famous man to win the California senatorship November 5th, would you believev that the Democrats actually are considering Jimmy Roosevelt to succeed the late FDR? It somehow reminds us of little girls parading in the long skirts of their mothers, snitched from the rag bag.

We doubt if it will work. The history of this country we think shows very plainly that the people will elect a leader, rather than a name, to the presidency. The Roosevelt name of course will have potency and vote getting power. A large segment of the population, which still believes in the philosophy of the late FDR, will grasp at the straw of the Roosevelt name. But in two years many things are likely to happen. More people will have learned at long last that no country, not even the United States, can grow rich by borrowing. The war proved that "the way of the transgressor is hard." Our peace time is proving every day that the way of the debtor is also hard.

Taxes, owing to the philosophy of FDR, have burst their one time dams. Formerly taxes were heavy only for the wealthy. That was under the Republican administration, if you please. But on coming into office Franklin D. Roosevelt launched the country on a great experiment, so called, of sharing the wealth. But our democracy after all, is a hardy perenial. The wealth of the rich has already been shared with the poor and proved insufficient.

Now the poor are beginning to share with the poor. Taxes nibble greedily at every pay envelope. Wages advance, but marching right along side of the host of wage earners, is a big chap, your Uncle Sam, with both his horny hands ohtstretched for his "take." No dodging please; pungle up, or else. The little fella and the big fella, both are paying, we hope, proportionately to their means.

So we conclude that taxes had a good deal to do with the Republican landslide of recent weeks. We are sorry to hear Republican leaders talk about a reduction of 20 per cent in income taxes. We know why they talk that way, because that is the old formula of all politicians. But the hard way is often the best way. Unless government expenses can be reduced by 20 per cent, let us, please hear no more about reducing taxes 20 per cent.

The Republicans, by and large have always been the best business managers for our nation. Remember after World War I what a mess of debt there was to be cleared up. Remember that it was a multimillionaire who was secretary of the treasury, and how fast that huge debt melted under his trained and expert business management. Now we have 261 billion dollars to pay off, according to the daily treasury report. That is roughly eight times the sum, the Wilson administration left to the Republican party to pay off. The task needs a succession of good businessmen at the treasury helm.

It just happens that under the Woodrow Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt administrations this country participated in the two biggest wars in history. They cost a lot of money to be sure, but we think, they cost billions more than they should. In due time we believe the Canol project will equal in scandalous size the Teapot Dome shame of the Harding administration. It has the same scoundrelly brand, but of course may be excused in the sacred name of a war emergency.

We believe the way for the Republican party to remain in office to follow the formula of the last 14 years. Borrow more money, build up a bigger and better bureaucracy, increase wherever possible the pensions of the increasing army of the needy. Kiss off the thought of the national debt with the comforting and easy remark: "We owe it to ourselves". Resurrect the "'Forgotten man", and promise him a limousine and a brown stone mansion. Kid the unwashed and unthinking into believing that heaven on earth is just around the corner. Oh yes, the Republicans could remain in power if they would.

But we still believe the party and its leaders are too honest for this silly chicanery. If it should prove otherwise, and we live to see it, we shall be tempted to journey painfully to Washington D. C. and explode our home made, tomatoe-can bomb right in the midst of the U. S. Senate.

Indians prefer black hats, because they acquired the habit of wearing black hats when the Union Army gave them their extra hats after the war between the states.

FRANTZ ADDRESSES ROTARY ON SCHOOL DISTRICT UNIFICATION

NEVADA CITY: Members of the Nevada City Rotary Club heard a talk by High School Principal Ed Frantz Thursday upon the subject of school district unification. Frantz explained details of a proposal to inaugurate a senior union high school between this city and Grass Valley.

The plan, Frantz said, called for combining the two city's high and elementary school districts under one head. He discussed general educational trends, including the one toward longer periods of eduoation.

Nevada City elementary school said Frantz, was built in 1935 for 420 students as a maximum load. With 475 present enrollment, it is necessary to run the first grade in double shifts.

This he ascribed to rising birth rates, and the influx of population to Nevada City. Next year, he said, the second and third grades would have to be run in double shifts. The district, under Proposition No. 3, is required to establish a kindergarten which will mean 100 more students next year.

As yet, the high school is not crowded, but the enrollment is increasing—30 more this year than last.

Frantz described the 6-3-3 and 6-4-4 plans of the state. These numbers, signify, respectively, 6 years of elementary, 3 of junior high, and 3 senior high; and 6 elementary, 4 intermediate, and 4 senior high. The last plan is recommended because students are in closer contact with their own age groups.

Frantz indicated that an educational survey to be made of this area by the state, will probably indicate the advisability of a unified school district. One hundred and thirty two Nevada County students now travel an average of 32 miles each way each day to Placer Junior College.

The Grass Valley board, according to Frantz, has already made plans for the option of 47 acres between the two cities.

"It is up to you as residents of the community", he concluded, "as to what is going to be done to modernize our educational system."

"The care of displaced persons is a great burden a costly load but in my personal opinion the money has been well spent. This is probably the greatest experiment in humanitarianism the world has ever known", Howard C. Peterson, assistant secretary of war.

Parent Problems

Children Who Fear the Dark

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

SOME parents, in their zeal not to pamper the young child, will go too far in their effort to harden him to going to sleep in the dark. Whereas it is rare that a child under twenty months evinces fear of the dark, some children from two to six, even older, sustain a lot of needless suffering from this fear.

A parent should have no hesitancy at leaving the young child's door ajar with a dim light in the hall or next room. In addition, it might be well, in case the youngster indicates fear of the dark, for the parent to pass by his door occasionally or enter his room pretending to be on an errand. This should not, however, be confused with the bad practice of going to his bedside repeatedly at his beck and call.

One of our children who had never objected to being left at bedtime in a dark room told his mother as he was going to bed one night at the age of five that X, a playmate, told him a monkey had been coming into X's bedroom at night.

Door Ajar

"Won't you please leave my door open and the light on outside it tonight?" he asked. To which his mother replied in a matter-of-fact way, "Of course, then you might be able to see the monkey." The next evening he gave a vivid account of just what that monkey looked like and how he acted. On this child's request, his door was left ajar each night for several weeks. Soon the monkey was no longer heard about.

Another of our children, when about ten, requested one night that the bedroom door be left open. This request was granted without question. In both cases the bedroom door was closed without objection after a few weeks. (My bulletin "Fears" may be had in a stamped envelope.)

In the following letter you will observe an account of how a mother tried to deal with a similar matter in a youngster two years old.

Child Cries

"Three nights ago; a problem arose which had me stumped. Instead of lying down and going right off to sleep when put to bed as he had always done, he started to cry. I went in once, since it was so unusual for him to cry in bed. Satisfying myself that nothing was wrong, I went out and let him scream. He continued for two and one-half hours. I finally went in to him. He stopped then but started again when I left and finally cried himself to sleep half hour later.

"Last night the same process was repeated over again. But after he cried again for two hours, I left the door to his room open at his request so that he could see the light from the rest of the house. This quieted him and he went to sleep.

"Tonight he cried when I said 'good night' and closed his door. I opened his door and he said h was afraid. I left the door open and left him. He didn't cry at all and fell asleep in five minutes."

We can see, as this mother no doubt discovered for herself, that if she had not given undue weight to requiring that little child to be in the dark at bedtime, she would have saved herself and him from some needless suffering. But we can be sure she was using her best judgment and we must admire her for having the courage to carry through her plans, and then the good sense to revise those plans once she found them wrong.

Here I might add that while it usually is wise to let the young child cry it out at bedtime, rather than to rock, tote him, or take him into bed with a parent, it is well to leave the child's door ajar with a dim light on outside the door, and to remain in easy hearing distance to make sure the struggling youngster won't suffocate.

"We have seen some states swayed not by the merits of the case but by ideological sympathies." Ernest Bevin British foreign secretary reviewing the work of the Paris peace conference before Commons.

Peter Henrikson is chairman of the Kendallco Group. He states residents there want to receive the advantages of fire and police protection, street lights, roads, water and sewer improvements.

PROSPECTS FOR PHEASANTS

Fanciers of upland game seem due for a good season. Statewide reports show that most counties have an abundant supply of pheasants this year with Siskiyou, Placer, Fresno and Solano counties evidencing the best hatches.

KECHELYS TO BE GONE YEAR ON TOUR

GRASS VALLEY—Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Kechely will leave next Friday on a long planned vacation tour that will take them at least a year to complete. Their first stop will oe in Los Angeles and from there they will travel to Ohio and later to the seaboard states with a stop in Florida.

Friday night they were given a farewell party by the Methodist Church choir.

FREE CHRISTMAS SHOW THIS YEAR

There will be a Christmas party for kids again this year at the Broadway Theater according to Ralph Achey, theater manager. The show will be put on free by the management in co-operation with the Chamber of Commerce and other civic and fraternal groups.

The show will start promptly at 2 p. m. Friday, December 20th. The show title has not been received but in all probability will include a western and comedy features.

All elementary school children in the local area will be invited. In 1945 the theater party had over 500 guests.

PALISADE GLACIER

Palisade Glacier, Inyo County, is the largest glacier in the Sierra Navadas and the most southerly of the United States. This comparatively solid mass of ice is 3 miles long and one mile wide. A relic of the ice age, it is hundreds of feet deep. Visitors approach the glacier following a seven mile hard hike from Glacier Lodge.

LOW SALES FIGURES

Low sales figures reported for September in the automobile and truck industries were due in large part to an acute shortage in part. Total sales for the first nine months in the automobile industry were 56 per cent below those for the same period of 1941. The trucking industry reported sales to be 40 per cent below 1941 production.

DUCK HUNTING

Duck hunters on the whole, have been disappointed in the present duck season due to scarcity of water in most of California counties. Alameda, Fresno, Orange, Tulare and Ventura counties seem to continue to offer the best prospects for the hunter. Liberal use of decoys should improve luck.

BEAR FANCIERS

For those hunters who prefer bracking bigger game, Del Norte and Siskiyou counties have an abundant supply of bear, all in good condition.

PROTECT YOURSELF

When a foolish driver dashes by you on the wrong side of the road and then attempts to crowd in in front of you don't speed up and prevent his pulling in. There's no sense to risking your own neck should oncoming traffic neglect to stop for the driver in the wrong lane.

NUGGET RECIPES

OAT VEGETABLE LOAF

1-2 cup cooked peas
1-2 cup cooked green beans
1-2 cup cooked dry beans
1 cup cooked carrots
1 cup quick cooking oats
1½2 cup diced celery
1 small can tomatoes
1 tablespoon minced green perper.
1 tablespoon minced onion.
Bacon (if possible)

Cut beans and carrots in small pieces and mix with other vegetables. Salt and pepper to taste, add uncooked oats and tomatoes. Pour in greased loaf tin, put strips of bacon on top and bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees about 40 to 60 minutes or until firm.

OATS

Add 1-4 cup of quick cooking oats to your vegetable soup, for the last ten minutes of its cooking time, to make it richer, and more filling and nourishing. Use oats to make a cereal ring for creamed vegetables.

SALMON PUFFS WITH LEMON SAUCE—Combine 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons prepared mustard and 2 cups milk in saucepan. Cook over low heat until thick, about 10 minutes. Flake 1 1-2 cups canned salmon and add. Beat 4 egg yolks and add to fish mixture. Beat 4 egg whites until stiff and fold in. Fill greased custard cups or greased 2 quart casserole 3-4 full. Set in shallow pan of warm water. Bake in hot oven, 425 degrees for 30 minutes for individual cups or 1 hour for casserole. Serve with lemon sauce. Yield: Six servings.

LEMON SAUCE—Melt 4 tablespoons butter or substitute in saucepan. Add 4 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoons salt, 2 teaspoons prepared mustard and blend well. Add 2 cups boiling water gradually and cook over low heat until mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Add 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Cook 3 minutes longer. Yield: Two cups.

Here's this recipe for ice cream made with evaporated milk, a tried and trusty favorite:

ICE CREAM

Scald 2 cups bottled milk, Add 1-8 taspoon salt
2-3 cup sugar

Add 1 tablespoon plain gelatin which has been softened in 1-3 cup water.

Add 1 1-2 tablespoons vanilla (remember freezing takes away some of the flavor) and allow to cool before placing in the refrigerator tray in the freezing zone. Set the control to a considerably colder temperature. Allow to freeze solid. It will look like white rubber. Then whip 1 tall can evaporated milk, which has been thoroughly chilled this is important, until stiff. Gradually add the frozen mixture and turn into trays. It will likely fill three of the average size. Allow to freeze rapidly or it will be icy and of poor texture.

VARIATIONS

Custard Ice Cream: Pour hot milk over 1 or 2 egg yolks, beaten slightly. Sherry, rum, and a dish of nutmeg may be used for flavoring or vanilla and a bit of lemon extract.

Chocolate: Combine the hot milk with 1 1-2 to 2 squares melted chocolate or 1-2 cup, scant, ground chocolate.

Coffee Ice Cream: Use 1 cup of strong coffee to replace 1 cup milk or add ground coffee to milk during scalding process, about 3 tablespoons. Strain.

Advertisements for sale of small portions of school lands were authorized to validate agreements heretofore in effect.

NEVADA CITY HIGH SCHOOL HIGHLIGHTS

By HENRY MURPHY

Basketball season is well underway with Coach Abbot in charge of the A division and the B and C teams under Mr. Warren Immel. More boys are turning out every day so a good season is expected.

Mrs. Constance Phiffler returned to her English and Math classes Friday, of last week, after being ill for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Immel are to be congratulated on their baby girl, born in Mill Valley, November 19th. Where are the cigars Mr. Immel? (School kids are not supposed to smoke—Editor).

Fred Anderson is back in school after spending some time in the hospital when he injured his knee in the Roseville game.

John "Monk" Morrison hopes to be home soon from the hospital, since he suffered a broken leg in the Sutter Creek game earlier in the football season.

It doesn't pay to be a teacher, at least that is the students opinion, for next week the faculty goes to school while the students enjoy Thanksgiving vacation.

MARYSVILLE PRESENTS PROGRAM

A well rounded musical program featuring both classical and popular selections was presented at a special assembly early last week, when a group of talented Marysville students came to Grass Valley and Nevada City in the first series of exchange assemblies.

Ila Kingsbury vocalist, George Tirkovich trumpet, and Charles Terrell vocalist, and of course Doug Reynolds who livened the program up with his hilarious impersonations of the "fairer sex", were the highlights of the program. Everyone enjoyed the presentation very much.

HOME Ec. STUDENTS SEE DEMONSTRATION

Home Ec. Students had to take a back seat last Thursday, November 14, as Miss Amelia Sanson and Miss Alice Kelley of the University of California gave lectures and demonstrations at the Elementary School on fashions and designs.

With all the shortages of material the girls can surely put their knowledge to work and restyle and design their own dressing apparel.

NITE-SCHOOL

Members of the Arts and Crafts division have been working diligently on pictures etched and pressed out on copper foil. These really make attractive wall decorations.

Mr. Wood's shop classes are continuing to turn out attractive pieces of home furnishings, such as tables, bowles, trays, etc.

Classes in short story writing, under Mr. David Lamson, are writing sample short storys which are submitted and discussed during class time.

The growth of salmon is more rapid in the sea than in river or lake.

Road-Planning By Air

NEVADA CITY: A new wrinkle in charting fire-fighting roads has been developed by the forest service—the use of airplanes to plot the new routes. Cal Ferris, head pilot of the forest service, has been making trips over the rugged Big Bend district for this purpose.

Various service officials have accompanied him in aerial expeditions, including Guerdon Ellis, Robert Dasmann, Theo Niehaus and Marvin Shock.

The currently planned road will go into the Monumental Creek area.

DAM DEDICATION

California Debris Act amended in 1934, fifty years after the Sawyer Act completely closed the hydraulic mining industry.

"To the man to whom this dam is dedicated today," said Hannum, "this district, in which Harry L. Englebright grew up as a boy, to the advancement of which he gave entire life, should be indeed grateful.

"It was the lure of glod which brought thousands of people to California, that made this state great. The gold mining industry must be protected so that the traditions of the golden state may continue in the life of its people. It is dams like this that protect the interests of hydraulic mining operators, and provide the electric power to make them self sustaining.

"To a great public servant, a man of keen vision, I dedicate this dam to Harry L. Englebright."

The bronze plaque is set in a great granite boulder rounded and polished by centuries of glacial action.

The plaque reads: Harry L. Englebhight Dam, by Act of Congress approved November 6th, 1945. Dedicated to the memory of Harry L. Englebright member of Congress, 1926-1943, by the California Hydraulic Mining Association.

Quail Season Opens Average Year Reported

The 1946 quail season opened Thursday with no exciting flocks reported. Hunters returning from the lower foothill regions say that this year's season is comparable to last year. Considerable hunting is going on near Browns Valley and lands adjacent to Camp Beale. Hunters must have their guns plugged for a maximum capacity of three shells.

COLD DAUNTS PICKETS; GRILL OPERATES 24 HRS.

GRASS VALLEY: The Valley Grill well known Mill Street restaurant being picketed by a culinary union local, on Thursday converted to full 24 hour service to its customers. The grill now closes Sundays instead of Tuesdays.

Pickets have so far not adopted Mrs. Lola Richmond's rigorous round the clock schedule. At present, they patrol the sidewalk until midnight, knock off during the dismal frigid arly morning hours and resume their watch at 4 a. m.

Basis of the Valley Grill dispute is reported to be not wages and hours, but Mrs. Richmond's refusal to force her waitresses and cooks to join the local union.

The Nevada County Employers Council, composed of a large group of merchants and business men, last Thursday declared full support of Mrs. Richmond's stand against what they termed the "persecution" attempted by the culinary local.

County Planning Commission Convenes

The Nevada County Planning Commission will meet November 20 at 7:30 p. m. in the board of supervisor's room at the Nevada County court house, according to County Clerk R. N. McCormack.

The board of supervisors recommended that the planning commission be given authority to handle many important problems confronting a growing county.

County officials, Ward Sheldon, Joseph O'Connor and R. N. McCormack will be present as members of the commission.

Grass Valley members include Louis Hartman, Hugh D. Brown, and George Ellsworth. Nevada City members are Herbert Hallett and John J. Fortier. Truckee will be represented by Walter M. Barrett.

HUMBOLDT COUNTY SALMON

Trolling for salmon is good at the mouth of the Eel River with Dungan's and Fulmor Pools producing the best catcthes. Salmon are reported upstream as far as Miranda.

Speed Does Not Pay!

GRASS VALLEY: Too much speed gave a big Buick sedan enough centrifugal force on the Rough and Ready grade Friday night, to send it over the bank. Five Camp Beale soldiers riding in the car driven by Albert W. Vesley were not seriously injured.

Jack Gilliam was given first aid and taken by ambulance to the Camp Beale hospital shortly after midnight.

Lorris Richards, highway patrolman who investigated the case cited Vesley for speeding and driving on the left side of the road.

Look What You Have Done To Us!

We have been open for seven weeks and the evidence of your confidence in our merchandise, prices and services has forced us to take the following steps: —

1 We have installed a vegetable stand where daily you will find produce so fresh and so clean, that it almost defies one not to buy it. Jack Frost put an end to our gardens, but we haul in from Sacramento three times weekly the best that the wholesalers have to offer. We handle a complete line of Frozen Foods too!

2 We bought a truck so that we can invade the markets regularly and pry loose those precious articles that are so scarce.

3 Your confidence in us brought Paul Viles a bang up sale. He has installed the last word in meat cases. Gleaming porcelain with black trimming, it is the zenith of perfection in food refrigeration.

4 We now handle fresh meats but only if it is Top Grade and can be priced right. It won't be long now until our case will bulge with succulent roasts and thick juicy steaks and chops.

5 Rabbits will be scarce for a while until our producers can increase their breed stock to meet your demands.

6 We have access however to an adequate supply of fine young cockerel fryers killed daily for your table.

7 We have added to our staff an expert in dust eradication. Her sole duty is personal attention to each and every bottle, can or package on our shelves. We believe you are entitled to that service.

8 We have bought and bought until our shelves fairly bulge with the good things for the table that you demand. Looks like we will have to bust out both ends of the building before long to accomodate the merchandise that you want.

9 You have given us the courage to go ahead and buy and build until soon, we hope, it can be said without hesitation, "YOU CAN ALWAYS FIND IT AT THE TOWN TALK MARKET."

10 We express our thanks to our customers and to the rest of you good folks, we simply say: "COME AND SEE FOR YOURSELF."

Wm. H. Davidson was advertising the sale to the highest bidder at his auction rooms on Commercial Street the house and lot on Nimrod Street, designated as lot No. 1, Block 58 together with all furnishings including solid oak bedroom and parlor sets, cooking and parlor stoves, washstands, bureaus and cradles.

The Board of Trustees of Grass Valley in special session, voted to survey the town site. Contract was awarded to Samuel Bethel of Auburn for $645.

H. Mackie long engaged in banking in this city, removed to San Francisco and entered into co-partnership with E. M. Hale and H. A. Charles under the firm name of Hale, Charles and Makie. They dealt in government securities and buying and selling and exchange of stocks on commission. Their place of business was $408 Montgomery Street.

Wm. Jessie discovered a rich quartz ledge on the road between Union Hill and the Idaho Mine. Fifteen hundred feet on the ledge were staked off and it was to be called the Jessie Quartz Claim.

The following places of business notified the public of their agreement to close each evening at eight o'clock, Saturdays and holidays week excepted: Hanson and Gregory, Lester and Mullov, Geo. E. SEEKS DEATH BUT CLINGS TO LIFE

IN THIS REMARKABLE PHOTO, Silas Jordan, New York, seeking to end his life, is caught betwixt and between his goal. Police, summoned by Jordan's wife, after he had threatened to kill himself, dropped a noose about him and spread a net beneath the fourth floor as he prepared to jump. And jump he did, but the noose tightened and he is shown struggling in mid-air as officials lower him to the net. (International)

DYNAMIC JIM ERSKINE WHO CURES SICK CARS

GRASS VALLEY: Jim Erskine, or the Erskine Automotive Electric Service, if you prefer, is dynamic. He has secured, in these difficult times, contracts with manufacturers of scores of different automobile parts, that are genuine, as contrasted with many gyp manufacturers, who do not expect to survive stable and normal conditions.

What this means to car owners is that with honest workmanship and honest materials, they are assured of something which has, and is always, much sought, a dollar value, for a dollar spent.

Jim Erskine, is the Packard dealer, for this area. The Packard, he states, is in a class by itself. It costs more, to be sure, then several other makes, but it also lasts longer, with less upkeep, expense, than two cars of some lower priced makes. You get what you pay for Jim says, whether its shoes or cars. The war has proved that the Packard can take it and still maintain a roadability through the years that is found only among cars in much higher brackets.

The Erskine Automotive Electric Service of 401 East Main Street has now established a body and fender shop in the big basement of the Erskine shops. Jim is now able to overhaul car engines, transmissions, electric systems and, when that's done, and interior is tuned for another several thousands of miles, he sends the car down to the body and fender shop and when it comes out, its car any owner would be proud to drive.

The driving force behind the group of trained mechanics is Jim himself. He is a human dynamo. When he sees any solicitor or time wasting person entering his shop he is usually on one those creeper things. He gives it a shove and disappears under a car. The visitor usually quickly tires of talking to a pair of grimy shoes and departs.

But Jim has the confidence of a growing clientele of car owners, of the Packard people who sell him more cars than many agencies receive, of the manufactuers of auto parts, who recognize his gift for doing a good job, and of the trained mechanics who find that Jim can teach them some things they never knew.

The latest facility that Jim has offered car owners will appeal especially to men who use their car every day. He has established a night service that lasts until 12 o'clock midnight, and has placed Arch Parman in charge.

This means that a working man who has to use his car every day can leave it at the Erskine Automotivve Electric Shops and call for it the next morning, without taking a half or whole day off. That is something the twin cities have needed for a long time.

The Indian on the Buffalo Nickel was modeled by Chief Two Gun White Calf of the Glacier Park Indian reservation.

LIONS HEAR WAR GUERRILLA STORY OF PHILLIPPINES

GRASS VALLEY: The full story of the Philippine Island underground movement during the last war was told Thursday night at the Lions dinner in Grass Valley by Robert Ball, local resident and an inactive major of Army Air Forces. An almost full attendance of Lions listened with keen attention to one of the most exciting stories of the war.

Ball spent three years in the Philippine jungles as a radio operator and radio officer in extending the communications network which was complete when MacArthur landed at Leyte and later at Lingayen.

Much of the material used in constructing the radio stations was supplied by American submarines. Japanese resistance was ever present in this underground radio movement and Ball declared that several American radio men died terrible deaths at the hands of the Japanese.

Ball's military life began as a private when he volunteered at Marysville in 1940. After graduating from radio school he was sent to the Philippines three weeks before Pearl Harbor and was present when the bombing of Clark Field took place. Ball estimated that 10,000 Americans were in the islands at the time and that only about 1000 escaped either to the hills or to Australia.

The ex-major was made a prisoner with the majority but only after five weeks incarceration escaped and took refuge in the Moro country of Mindanoa. A short time later he joined with other refugees and helped form the American-Filipino underground.

His radio was one of the first to establish contact with Australia, with the flow of supplies by American submarine starting shortly after.

It was the excellent exchange of information between the radio stations of the underground on the islands and with the mainland of Australia that continually harassed the Japanese and helped one Ameiran operator to provide submarines with Japanese ship movements information, causing 185 Jap ships to be sunk during the war.

Ball established stations on Mindanao, Samar and eventually Luzon. He was one of the Liberators of the Santa Tomas interment camp.

The former radio officer was the guest speaker of the program chairman Ralph Greenwell.
